Frequently Asked Questions – Residential vs. Commercial

- Why would a top-notch residential originator even want to care about commercial mortgages?

You want to stay in touch with your clients in order to serve any real estate financing need they may have. Many of your current clients are 'moving-up' to investing in apartment complexes, small office buildings, self-storage facilities and other 'low-end' commercial opportunities instead of continuing to buy, rent, manage and 'flip' residential properties. YOU should get this business!
- I don't know a thing about commercial financing, do I really want to try and offer this to my clients?

You don't want, or need, to be a "commercial expert" to help your clients. It's a highly specialized, Financial-Based, industry. But, to best serve your client, you'd like to bring in someone that understands their issues and can help them achieve their goals in this transaction. However, if you want to develop some basic commercial real estate financing skills, we've produced an excellent "Introduction to Commercial Real Estate Finance" that's worth your time to review.
- Key Question – How am I paid and when? Do I need to disclose this to my borrower?

1.0% to 2.0% in Broker Protected Compensation is built into most deals..
YOUR client does not see your fee in any disclosure (Commercial Lending is NOT subject to RESPA) – origination fee is shown as due the lender (us) Broker Fee is NOT shown at all.

- I'm getting all kinds of stuff from other Commercial Lenders – folks like Silver Hill Commercial, Velocity, Cherrywod, Kennedy and many others. What makes you guys any better?

Our rates are closer to your client's local bank rates – NOT "hard-money" rates. These other folks charge anywhere from 9% to 16% interest rates, as much as 3 to 6 points 'up-front' and a host of 'junk-fees' BEFORE they allow YOU to make any money on the deal – either up-front through a broker protection letter with your client that spells out your fee as an 'additional charge' or as an 'add-on' rebate that raises the interest rate even higher on the 'back-end'.

AND - their Prepayment Penalties might be really, really Deal Destructive! You may see "Lock-Out", Yield Maintenance, Income Replacement and/or Defeasance to create a penalty in excess of 30% to 50% of the remaining loan amount for years to come! OURS are the "softest" in the biz!

Additionally, we take most ANY sized deal – as small as $200,000 to as large as $13,000,000.

- What is happening in the Commercial marketplace – in Residential we're suffering from higher rates, far fewer refinances and an almost dead purchase money market! What about Commercial??

We're buried by a refinancing boom, honestly! Many small commercial deals were done with banks over the past 7 to 10 years. These deals are at prime plus anywhere from 3.0% to 7.0% - which means that they're paying upwards of 6.0% to 8.0% for these loans. They often need to put equity back into the property in the form of New Improvements. At rates in the mid 4% to high 5% range, you can do that for them while 'fixing' the rate for up to 10 years!

Also, a lot of small business owners (and large ones too) are buying their own offices, warehouses, industrial facilities, whatever – they need financing and most of them only know of their local banker. But, he'll 'float' the rate with prime, he'll also file a lien on their inventory, equipment, company vehicles and worst of all, their homes. And, he'll want them to 'turn' the loan every 3 to 7 years besides!! You're offering financial stability without tying up anything except the Subject Property!

- How do I get started finding Commercial deals?

Your current client base is your best, immediate, bet. Get an e-mail out to them letting them know you've recently added Commercial Real Estate financing to your 'bag-of-tricks' and that you're able to help them with these solutions just as easily and painlessly as you do with Residential.

Work with your Title Company to send a mailing to all of the owners of Commercially Zoned property parcels in your target market area. These folks are not yet inundated with mortgage mailings!

Contact your real estate agent referral sources – a lot of their investor clients want to 'move-up' from residential properties to commercial properties. You can help them get these deals done!
